

Darkling beetles

By: Emily

The darkling beetles lay eggs. The darkling beetles crawl around the potato. You can't see the eggs they are small.

The eggs turn into mealworms and they eat potato for water. The mealworms eat wheat germ.

They turn into pupas, the pupas look like they're dead.

Then they are darkling beetles and you can look at them good. The darkling beetle are white and then red then black.
